

A Mission of Love

One woman's struggle to help feral cats in her community.

By Sandy Robins

Petaluma is a quaint riverside town in picturesque Sonoma County, an area in Northern California best known for its numerous wine estates. But like many cities across the United States, away from its happy and contented public persona, its underbelly is home to countless abandoned cats left to try to survive in

**Get the April 2009 issue of CAT FANCY to read the full article.****