

Cat Calls

Meet successful New York City cat sitter Jeanne Adlon.

By Karen Jones

Jeanne Adlon has one mission in life: to help animals, particularly cats. As New York City's first full-time cat sitter, she has cared for hundreds of furry felines while their owners are away.

But her story begins with a chance meeting in the 1960s with Cleveland Amory, a celebrated entertainment critic, animal activist and author of the beloved classic book "The Cat Who Came for Christmas."

Get the August 2008 issue of CAT FANCY to read the full article.

Read Jeanne's advice column.