Singer-songwriter Matthew Sweet turns his love for cats into an art form.

By Peter Gerstenzang

You probably know Matthew Sweet best as a singer/songwriter and creator of tuneful pop melodies. His albums "Girlfriend" and "100% Fun" both have gone platinum. But did you know that this guy also is cat-crazy? Sweet and his wife own four cats that this L.A.-based rocker dotes on and talks about with as much affection as he does about rock and roll. Meet Matthew Sweet: cat lover.

"My love of cats goes as far back as I can remember," says the 40-something guitarist, bassist and producer, who's so pleasant, you'd think his last name was actually an adjective.
