

Breed Profile: Feline Superhero

The Cornish Rex wows its fans with its unique look and playful personality.

By Elisa Jordan

Faster than a speeding bullet? More powerful than a locomotive? Able to leap tall buildings in a single bound? Maybe not quite, but the Cornish Rex gives it a pretty good try. Tall buildings are out of the question, but refrigerators and cabinets are not. They might even fly through the air and land on a shoulder or in a lap.

Get the March 2009 issue of CAT FANCY to read the full article.