

Furnish With Flair

When it comes to trends in cat furniture, cats and people alike want things big.

By Elisa Jordan

It's no secret that cats like places to scratch and relax; and, if owners don't provide them with outlets, cats will make their own provisions. In recent years, as pets have become more like family members and people better understand their needs, their furniture has improved in both quality and design.

Design, in fact, has been an enormous factor for owners. Instead of cat furniture that looks like an eyesore, consumers now demand tasteful pieces of furniture in neutral colors that blend easily into their homes' décor.
