

The CatChannel Newswire

Top stories: Car crash cat has face rebuilt; North Carolina sets up hurricane shelter for pets.

Posted: July 26, 2008 2 a.m. EDT

Car Crash Cat Has Face Rebuilt

The cat was kept alive in an incubator and underwent a series of expensive operations to get his face back in action. Six days after the accident he was able to meow again, and within six weeks he could eat on his own, the Telegraph (United Kingdom) reports.

Read the article

North Carolina Sets Up Hurricane Shelter for Pets

When the next hurricane strikes the North Carolina coast, a shelter in Wilmington will welcome pet owners and their cats and dogs, which will pose for mug shots before settling into their kennels to ride out a storm, The Associated Press reports.

Read the article

Korea: Dead Cat to be Examined for Bird Flu

Quarantine authorities are examining a cat to discover whether it was infected with the highly pathogenic strain of avian influenza that swept the country in April, The Korea Times reports.

Read the article