The third contest challenges pet owners to prove that their pet is the "cutest" around. Photos are judged on a 1-10 scale – 1 being "cute" and 10 being "picture perfect."

The second runner-up last year was a puppy sprawled on a green lawn. Winners are selected by a panel of WEtv pet experts, with the user ranking being taken into consideration. Two runners-up will be chosen to receive a $2,500 cash prize each.

From now through Feb. 15, pet owners from around the country can upload images of their furry friends. Submissions will be posted on the website, where visitors can browse photos and cast votes.

Pets of all ages and types are welcome to enter.
