

The CatChannel Newswire

Top stories: Testing targets tumors in leopards; cat hairs bring down suspected bank robber.

Posted: April 29, 2009, 3 a.m. EDT

Testing Targets Tumors in Leopards

Nattie, an 8-year-old clouded leopard, was treated with tender loving care as scientists used human-like testing procedures recently in an effort to learn more about adrenal tumors in the endangered species, the Northern Virginia Daily reports.

Read the article >>

Cat Hairs Bring Down Suspected Bank Robber

Laboratory analysis of a canvas grocery bag, some human hair and cat hairs were used to track down and identify a man now charged with a 2005 bank robbery on the Northwest Side, the Chicago Sun-Times reports.

Read the article >>

Cat Stuffed in Suitcase and Abandoned at Airport Up for Adoption

The Peninsula Humane Society said Friday that a Persian cat found stuffed inside a suitcase and abandoned at a hotel parking lot in Northern California will soon be up for adoption, cbs5.com reports.

Read the article >>