

The CatChannel Newswire

Top stories: Kittens born inside Wall Street's biggest lion; girl gathers money, supplies for animal shelter.

Posted: Aug. 14, 2009, 3 a.m. EDT

Kittens Born Inside Wall Street's Biggest Lion

The first tenant of the new Goldman Sachs tower in New York paid no rent and signed no lease when she moved in this spring. Pregnant with quintuplets, she commandeered just a few square feet of space in the 43-story skyscraper that is nearing completion. There, unnoticed by the international banking firm, the black cat built a bed of newspaper and cardboard boxes. At the end of June, when her new home was ready, she brought five inky black kittens into a noisy world of jackhammers and backhoes, reports Downtown Express.com.

Read the article >>

Girl Gathers Money, Supplies for Animal Shelter

Even though she won't be able to volunteer at the Humane Society of Angelina County/Winnie Berry Pet Adoption Center for another eight years, a local girl found a way to use a little bit of her summer vacation to help out homeless pets, reports the Lufkin (Texas) Daily News.

Read the article >>

Microchipping: A Tale of Hope

This is a story of keeping hope alive. Switch the cat was over 16 when he managed to get out of a yard in Florida. While his survival story is inspiring, simultaneously his owner Laura Tandler offers an equally inspiring story of survival, the Hartford (Conn.) Courant reports.

Read the article >>