

The CatChannel Newswire

Top stories: Cougar caught in Seattle park released into the wild; cat returns after three-year disappearance.

Posted: Sept. 9, 2009, 3 a.m. EDT

Cougar Caught in Seattle Park Released into the Wild

A cougar that apparently had lived in Seattle for more than two weeks and forced the city's largest park to close was captured early Sunday and returned to the wild, state wildlife officials said, reports the Los Angeles Times.

Read the article >>

Cat Returns After Three-Year Disappearance

Margaret Connick's reaction to news that her beloved Gus had been found after a three-year disappearance was one of understandable surprise, reports the Vallejo (Calif.) Times-Herald.

Read the article >>

Fur Flies Over Proposed Ban on Declawing Cats

In pet-crazy San Francisco, it sounds like a no-brainer: a proposed ban on the declawing of cats, framed by supporters as a simple animal-cruelty measure. But the ban is opposed by the San Francisco Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and others, reports the San Francisco Chronicle.

Read the article >>