

Donation Enriches Pets' Lives at Sanctuary

Pet-product manufacturer Hartz Mountain donates supplies to Best Friends Animal Society.

Posted: October 15, 2009, 3 a.m. EDT

A kitten named Sister plays with one of the donated toys. Photo courtesy Molly Wald, Best Friends Animal Society. The Hartz Mountain Corp., a Secaucus, N.J.-based manufacturer of pet care products, recently donated $112,000 worth of pet treats and supplies to Best Friends Animal Society.

Best Friends houses roughly 1,700 dogs, cats, rabbits and other animals at its sanctuary in Kanab, Utah. Included among the items Hartz donated to the nonprofit organization were cat and dog toys, catnip, pet shampoo and conditioner, pet toothbrushes, treats and chews, collars and food dishes.

"The toys, chew strips, treats and other supplies all are items that add to the enrichment of the lives of animals at Best Friends Animal Sanctuary," said Patty Hegwood, animal care director for the group.