Cat-trapping Program Kicks Off

Ontario resident Shawna Warden, Ontario Feral Cat TNR Project volunteer, said she feels very passionate about the work she and other volunteers are doing to help reduce the feral cat population in Ontario, reports the Argus (Ontario) Observer. Read the article >>

Shelter Sees Increase in Older Pets

Amy Neal and Ruth Bertagna, volunteers at the Humane Association of Warren County in Lebanon, both insist that older pets can provide a lot of value and love to families looking to add a four-legged member. And the biggest trick these volunteers are looking to perform is to find homes for the increasing older pet population at the shelter, reports the Dayton (Ohio) Daily News. Read the article >>

Bleak Future for Unwanted Cats

The region's animal welfare workers are facing the grim prospect of euthanizing hundreds of cats and kittens before Christmas as a deluge of unwanted pets hits their doors, reports the Pine Rivers (Australia) Press. Read the article >>
