

The CatChannel Newswire

Top stories: Animal control worker says ex-boss hostile to pets; Who knew? Cats dig agility contests, too.

Posted: February 2, 2010, 3 a.m. EST

Animal Control Worker Says Ex-Boss Hostile to Pets

Documents show Cory Bowman, former director of Murray City Animal Control, used to euthanized kittens by breaking their necks, an action labeled inhumane by The Humane Society of the United States, reports the Salt Lake City Tribune.

Read the article>>

Who Knew? Cats Dig Agility Contests, Too

Oh, those crazy cats. They aren't content to lounge on the back of the couch, perch on top of the refrigerator, or play with silly little faux mice. Nope, they secretly yearn to be ... just like dogs, reports The Orange County (Calif.) Register.

Read the article>>

L.A. Begins Search for an Animal Services Manager

The successful candidate for general manager of Los Angeles' animal shelter system must be compassionate but business-minded, able to inspire the army of staffers who care for the city's abandoned animals and lost pets; to survive interrogation by the L.A. City Council; and to appease the legions of devoted volunteers, rescuers and advocates in the city's humane community, reports the Los Angeles Times.

Read the article>>