

The CatChannel Newswire

Top stories: NYC man pleads guilty to killing girlfriend's cat; mass free spay and neuter clinic in California.

Posted: February 10, 2010, 3 a.m. EST

NYC Man Pleads Guilty to Killing Girlfriend's Cat

A graphic designer accused of surreptitiously killing a series of his girlfriend's cats pleaded guilty Monday to aggravated animal cruelty, ending an eerie case in which authorities said the unsuspecting woman kept replacing her dying pets, reports The Associated Press.

Read the article>>

Mass Free Spay and Neuter Clinic Feb. 20

Around this time every year animal shelter workers across Sonoma County brace themselves for a kitty invasion. This year, they're fighting back. In what may be the largest event of its kind in county history, all seven of the county's animal shelters are teaming up Feb. 20 to offer a free spay and neuter clinic for cats, reports the Santa Rosa (Calif.) Press Democrat.

Read the article>>

Legislator Tries Second Time to License Oklahoma Dog, Cat Breeders

Rep. Lee Denney hopes this year to regulate Oklahoma's $30 million dog- and cat-breeding industry. A big change from last year's effort in the measure authored by the veterinarian is that those involved in breeding operations would no longer be required to register with the state to be licensed. House Bill 2745 would make registration strictly voluntary, reports

NewsOK.com

Read the article>>