

The Cat Channel Newswire

Top stories: Why cats get a bad rap in movies; therapy as a treatment option for cats.

Posted: July 30, 2010, 3 a.m. EDT

Cats' Cinematic Bad Rap

With untrustworthy appearances and sinister motives, cats are often portrayed as evil creatures in movies, a Guardian column says. The Siamese in "Lady and the Tramp" and Lucifer in "Cinderella" are two examples from Disney.

Read the article>>

Can Therapy Help Cats?

Treatment for issues beyond medical concerns could be possible with cat therapists, an ABC affiliate reports. Therapists can consider the home environment and the effect that owners have on their cats as well.

Read the article>>

Lost Australian Cat Returned After a Year

A lost Australian cat was found nearly 800 miles from home, thanks to a microchip, the Herald Sun reports. The cat, Timothy, had been living with a family for a year until the microchip was discovered.

Read the article>>