

Former First Daughter to Discuss Book About Cats

Patti Davis, daughter of former President Ronald Reagan, will appear on Animal Radio this weekend.

Patti Davis, the author of six books and daughter of former President Ronald Reagan, will appear on Animal Radio this weekend to discuss her book Two Cats and the Woman They Own Lessons I Learned from My Cats.

In Two Cats and the Woman They Own, Davis recounts how living with and learning from her cat companions, Aretha and Skeeter changed her life for the better.

Patti admits that she was a self-avowed dog person when her first cat adopted her. Her father, and former US President, taught her to be compassionate to all animals. She shares some great moments with us at Animal Radio, Producer Judy Francis said.

Animal Radio, a syndicated network based in Utah, airs nationally on more than 90 radio stations in more than two dozen US states. Among the cities where the show can be heard are Baltimore, Los Angeles, Pittsburgh and Baton Rouge, La.

In addition, the show can be streamed over the Internet at <http://AnimalRadio.com>.

Posted: May 17, 2006, 5:00 a.m. EST