

Humane Society Offers Free Neutering

Clinic for male cats set for this Sunday.

In an effort to reduce the number of unwanted and homeless cats in the mid-coast Maine region, the Humane Society of Knox County, Maine, is partnering with area veterinarians to offer a free feline neuter clinic for male cats.

The next clinic is scheduled for Sunday, July 16. Surgeries are by appointment only. Knox County residents that care for an un-neutered male cat can call the Humane Society to make an appointment.

Only residents of Knox County that care for an un-neutered male cat are eligible to participate.

The clinics started in March and to date, the Humane Society says it has neutered over 75 cats for free.

For more information, visit www.HumaneSocietyofKnoxCounty.org. Posted: July 11, 2006, 5:00 a.m. EST