

Recalled Cat Foods

Posted: April 18, 2007, 7:30 p.m. EST

The following cat food brands have been recalled by their maker, Menu Foods, because of a contamination that could cause kidney failure. The recall is limited to "cuts and gravy" style wet pet food in cans and pouches. Consumers who have one or more of the products being recalled are advised to stop using it immediately, and those who suspect that their pet has eaten tainted food should consult a veterinarian. For a list of the most current cat foods being recalled, visit the FDA's website. More information also is available at Menu Food's website.
